Due to the fabric specs of bouclé and sabbia, wrinkling is more likely to occur in use, especially with padded seats. This is unavoidable and no reason for complaint.

Information about the materials

Fabric & foam

Fabrics are made from different textile fibers, most of the time natural fibers. Fabrics have a certain elasticity, with some fabrics being more stretchy than others. When using a sofa or chair, the fabric will start to fold, which is normal. The folding is not solely caused by the fabric but also due to the foam becoming softer. Foam is made from oil, which is chemically processed to create an elastic material. It is blown up into a large block with cells filled with air. When the furniture is used, these cells can crack, causing the foam to become softer and provide more comfort. On average, the filling will decrease in hardness and stabilize at around 85% compared to its initial state.

With new fabrics, the first fibers may come off and form small balls, a phenomenon known as pilling. This is a normal characteristic of natural fabrics and does not affect the material's quality. It is possible to remove the pills by using a small machine to skim the fabric. However, it is common for pilling to occur when using furniture. The level of pilling can vary depending on the type of fibers used in the fabric. It is often categorized on a scale of 1 to 5, where 1 represents very strong pilling and 5 indicates hardly any pilling.

The lightfastness of a fabric is also categorized on a scale from 1 to 6, where 1 represents strong color changing and 6 indicates no color changing. However, the degree of color fading or changing depends on the location of the furniture in the house. If the furniture is placed on the south side where it receives direct daylight and sunlight throughout the day, even fabrics labeled as 6 may lighten. To minimize this effect, it is recommended to use curtains or shutters to weaken the intensity of light on the fabric.

Leather & foam

Leather is a 100% natural product. The leather, Scarpe, that we use is full aniline leather, which means it is kept natural and does not have a protective layer. It is sensitive to moisture, oil, and other fluids or grease, which can be easily absorbed by the leather. The leather may show insect bites, growing scars, etc. Over time, the leather will naturally lighten in color, and exposure to sunlight will accelerate this process.

Leather has its own inherent elasticity, and with use, it may develop folds. This is normal. The folding is not solely caused by the leather but also due to the foam becoming softer. Foam is made from oil, which undergoes a chemical process to become elastic. It is blown up into a large block with cells filled with air. When the furniture is used, these cells can crack, resulting in the foam becoming softer and providing increased comfort. On average, the filling will decrease in hardness and stabilize at around 85% compared to its initial state.

Wood

Wood is a natural product that naturally expands and contracts in response to the environmental conditions in your home. Our tables are crafted from solid wood. To prevent the wood from warping or splitting, it is important to maintain a consistent humidity level in your home, ideally between 50% and 75%. Avoid placing wooden furniture near heat sources such as radiators or fireplaces.

Color variations from the photos shown in this price list are possible. Sizes and images are subject to typesetting and printing errors. Bodilson reserves the right to make improvements to models, sizes, and materials. Submitted fabrics are not accepted.

Leather | Scarpe

Type of skin: European full anilin wax

Thickness: 1.2–1.4 mm

Lightfastness: 3 (scale 1-8)

Leather Scarpe is a 100% natural leather, with no protection. Moisture, oil, fluids; everything will be visible in the leather. By using the leather it will age and become even more beautiful. Leather Scarpe can vary in colour between each skin. The leather samples are just an indication of how it may look. The leather can have errors like burn marks, insect bites etc. If you want to know the exact colour in which your furniture will be made, please ask for a production leather sample. But we can't tell you what kind of errors the leather could have.

Leather | Pelle

Type of skin: Brazilian semi aniline with a natural grain

Thickness: 1.3–1.5 mm

Lightfastness: 3 (scale 1-8)

Leather Pelle is a 100% natural leather, semi aniline. Semi-aniline leather is just a little bit tougher than aniline leather because its surface has been treated with a light coat that contains some pigment, which makes it more soil- and stain-resistant. While it retains the uniqueness of aniline leather, semi-aniline leather has more consistent color and is more resistant to stains. It can stand up to tougher conditions and isn't damaged as easily.

Any fabric will eventually develop wrinkles when used, depending on its stiffness, stretch, and how the model is upholstered. Please note that this is a normal characteristic and should not be considered a reason for complaint or a request for replacement.

● This fabric is only suitable for individual sections and not recommended for corner setups due to the shading effect.

● Due to the fabric specifications of Valberg, Bouclé, Sura and Sabbia, wrinkling is more likely to occur, especially with padded seats. Please note that this is an unavoidable characteristic of the fabric and should not be considered a defect or a reason for complaint.

Finishing and maintenance

Dining tables: Room, Rover, Slide, Shell and Casco

Coffee tables: Rio, Rami and Roef

Our tables are made of new wood, from naturally wild oak. In colloquial terms, this is called rustic oak. Naturally means that every tree is different. The table in the showroom will be different from the table you receive because each tree grows under different conditions. These differences manifest in different wood grains, deformities, cracks, pores, making each wooden piece unique. Each wood delivery varies in color shading and texture. An absolute color and texture cannot be guaranteed. With traditional tools, grooves, cracks, and knots are worked on, preserving the rustic look. Craftsmanship.

Wood is always in motion. Existing and new cracks can occur in this rustic type of wood because it expands and contracts throughout its entire lifespan. This is not a reason for complaints; it is part of the natural character of the product.

Examples of knots, grooves, and cracks that showcase the uniqueness of each wooden piece of furniture.

Usage

The optimal indoor climate for humans is not dry, and especially not too warm. And precisely this climate is best for solid wooden furniture. Ideally, the humidity should be between 45% and 55%. Prolonged extreme variations, such as during winter when more heating is used, can cause the wood to crack and warp.

Avoid placing the furniture directly next to a heater, another heat source, or an air conditioner. This prevents excessive wood movement and the formation of cracks.

Wood changes color under the influence of UV light. Avoid direct sunlight. Do not cover the wood, allowing it to undergo regular discoloration. (Move decorative objects regularly, especially during the first year of using the furniture). Natural oil-based products are available to protect the wood surface without causing damage. We use Osmo Topoil in the color 3068 Natural.

The surface treatment is designed to keep the wood pores open, allowing the wood to breathe. As a result, the treated surfaces are less susceptible to stains caused by liquids and food items that come into contact with the wood on a daily basis. To ensure a long lifespan for the wood, prolonged exposure to such stains should be avoided. Dirt and beverage stains should be promptly removed. Avoid placing hot and moist objects on the furniture as it can cause rings and stains.

Osmo Topoil (3058) for nourishment

When wear occurs due to surface usage, it needs to be cared for again. This ensures that the surface remains beautiful and protected for a longer time. Use Osmo Top Oil 3058 for this purpose. For a table top of 200x100 cm, you will need approximately 5 to 6 tablespoons of oil. For a top measuring 240x100 cm, you will need 7 tablespoons. Rub the Osmo Top Oil 3058 into the surface using a non-linting white cotton cloth. Allow it to dry thoroughly. The drying process takes about 120 minutes with good ventilation. Therefore, make sure to open windows and doors to allow optimal ventilation of the surface. Then, wipe with a dry cloth.

Daily maintenance with Osmo spray cleaner

Never use chemical, corrosive, or dissolving cleaning agents for daily cleaning of the surface. Always clean the surface with a dry, lint-free cloth. Do not use a damp cloth on oiled surfaces! The Osmo Spray Cleaner is a convenient spray for maintaining your furniture. The spray nourishes the surface. After each use or when there is dirt on the surface, spray the cleaner onto the top and wipe it off with a white cotton cloth.

Osmo liquid maintenance wax and cleaner

Before treating the surface, it should be dry-cleaned with a dust cloth. If necessary, the surface can also be cleaned with Osmo Wisch-Fix 8016. Then, apply approximately 2 teaspoons per square meter to areas with wear or grease stains. Apply the maintenance wax (very thinly) to the specific spots using a microfiber cloth. The drying time is approximately 30 to 40 minutes with good ventilation. Therefore, make sure to open windows and doors to allow optimal ventilation of the surface.

The Osmo products we recommend can be ordered by consumers themselves via www.osmonederland.nl

Finishing and maintenance

Dining table: Ramses

Table Ramses is made of oak veneer. The tabletop has a veneer top and bottom layer, with an MDF core and a solid oak edge. The wood is stained and then finished with a matte lacquer.

The protective lacquer layer loses approximately 20% of its protective properties when unpacking the tabletop. The lacquer will continue to dry and cure after unpacking. After 48 hours, the varnish layer regains 90% of its protective properties. Full hardness is achieved after 30 days. During this time, it is recommended not to expose the tabletop to uneven surfaces, sharp objects, or heavy items, as they may cause scratches.

Usage:

The optimal indoor climate for humans is not too dry and especially not too hot. An ideal humidity level is between 45% and 55%. Prolonged extreme deviations, such as during winter when more heating is used, can cause the wood to crack or warp.

Avoid placing the table directly next to a heater, another heat source, or an air conditioner. This prevents excessive movement of the wood and potential cracking.

Wood can change color due to UV light. Avoid direct exposure to sunlight. Do not cover the wood so that it can change color regularly. (Move decorative objects regularly, especially during the first year of using the furniture.)

Maintenance:

Table Ramses can be wiped clean with a dust cloth and/or a lightly damp cloth. Tap water is sufficient; avoid using chemical substances as they may cause dullness or scratches. Table Ramses does not require any further long-term maintenance.

Characteristics of wool rugs

Wool rugs are not only sustainable but also meticulously handcrafted using natural materials, making each rug a one-of-a-kind piece. The wool used in these rugs is carefully dyed in a range of captivating colors, and its inherent qualities give it a beautiful matte appearance. To enhance the overall texture and visual appeal, viscose fibers are added, creating an interplay of shine and depth throughout the carpet.

As with any natural fiber, it is normal for wool rugs to experience minimal shedding during use. Small loose wool fibers may come off, especially in the initial stages. However, this is nothing to worry about and is considered a characteristic of wool. The inclusion of viscose yarn in the rug's construction helps to limit shedding. To maintain the rug's appearance and minimize shedding, it is recommended to regularly vacuum the wool rug using a low-volume setting and a soft nozzle attachment. This gentle approach helps prevent the spread of wool fibers and the formation of fiber balls or dust balls, ensuring the rug retains its pristine condition. It is advisable to avoid using brushes, as they can agitate the fibers.

The weaving process of wool rugs involves using long strands of twisted wool, which are skillfully woven on a loom. Although these strands are not infinitely long, seamless transitions are achieved by securely attaching the ends of each strand to the rug's backside and seamlessly introducing a new strand. In the rare event that a starting or ending loop becomes loose over time, it can easily be pushed back to the backside or reattached with a small dot of glue, ensuring the rug maintains its structural integrity and aesthetic appeal.

Bodilson rugs are thoughtfully designed with a practical backing of stiff cotton cloth. This backing serves a dual purpose: it helps keep the rug flat and stable on the floor while also providing an added layer of durability. Thanks to this backing, the need for an additional underlay is generally eliminated, simplifying the rug's placement and ensuring it stays securely in place.

With their exquisite craftsmanship, sustainable materials, and attention to detail, wool rugs from Bodilson bring warmth, character, and a touch of natural beauty to any space, creating a cozy and inviting atmosphere.
